THE LATE WILLIAM AULD.

All that is mortal of the late William Auld will be buried this afternoon at 3:30 from the Masonic Temple, with full Masonic honors, and behind the line Masons, Knights of Pythias, Red Men, former comrades of the old Honolulu Rifle Company and the volunteer fire department, and government officials, will march to the cemetery. William Auld, whose death at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning was reported in the Advertiser, had attained the ripe old age of nearly three score and ten years, of which he belonged, and from the time he first landed on the shores of Hawaii, in which he was an earnest believer to the time of his death.

Yesterday the body lay in state at the residence at Punawea, Palama, and hahilis were waved over the body without cessation by Hawaiians, who with ingly stood the trial of silence to show their esteem. The casket rested on a flower-crusted bier, decked with masses of flowers. The face looked almost as natural as in life. Upon the breast were Masonic decorations and the decoration of the Order of Oceanic, conferred by King Kalakaua. About the waist was his Masonic apron. A Masonic guard of honor remained at the residence last night. Governor Dole has ordered the Hawaiian Band to be present at the funeral this afternoon, and a squad of police will be in attendance.

The body will be taken from the residence today and placed in the hall of the Masonic Temple, where the full ritual of the order will be said. The pallbearers will be old and tried friends of the deceased, members of the Board of Health, of which body he was a member at his death. The pallbearers are J. O. Carter, Senator H. Kamakaiolani, David Dayton, Chalmers J. Hobron and two members from the Board of Health. The offices of the Health Department were closed yesterday.

William Auld was born August 7, 1832, in the parish of Kilmaurs, Ayrshire, Scotland, at Palsley. He was trained as a carpenter, and worked with his father. He was afterwards a wheelwright, and then opened a butcher shop in Kilmaurs.

His first governmental position, under the monarchy, was as tax collector for the district of Kona, island of Hawaii. Later he was appointed a clerk in the Waiwerorks Department, under King Kalakaua. The king commissioned him superintendent of the house of nobles, which position he held until the overthrow of the monarchy in January, 1893, when he resigned out of sympathy for Queen Liliuokalani and the royalist cause. His sympathies were so strong that he refused to subscribe to the oath of allegiance to the provisional government. He remained out of office from January, 1893, until last spring, when the various senate refused to confirm the governor's recess appointments to the Board of Health, and William Auld was appointed to fill the vacancy. Since Mr. Auld regularly attended the meetings until fall, when he began to fail in health, and thereafter was not often in attendance. During the political campaign of 1900 Mr. Auld was named the Democratic candidate for the legislature, but failed of election.

Mr. Auld was the friend of the Hawaiians, and always was a steadfast friend of the royal family, and was also the personal and intimate friend of Queen Liliuokalani, by whom he was held in high esteem. He was married in 1857 to Miss Mary Ann Ching, by whom there were seven children of his own, but he often said that all children were his children. He was intensely fond of children, and they were always welcome to his home. His residence was always open to friends and strangers alike, and the hospitality of his home was proverbial. The residence has always been a favorite one, and is one of the show places in Hawaii whence come the beautiful blossoms of the Lehua. He was also the owner of a new beach residence, at Waikiki, of Queen Liliuokalani, at Waikiki.

He was a charter member of the Mechanics' Benefit Union, and also a charter member of the Hook and Ladder Company No. 1, of the old volunteer fire department, which had headquarters at the hall lower on Union street. He was also a member of the Honolulu Rifles, and a sergeant in it. He was an a thirty-second degree Mason, member of Lodge to Progress, A. F. & A. M., and a charter member of Aloha Temple, Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. In the latter organization Auld was well known. He has always been greatly interested in secret societies, and has made his way upward to high degree in them. He was also a Knight Templar. He was honored by his king who conferred upon him the much prized Order of Oceanic.

Mr. Auld was also a member of the Honolulu Rifles. During the reign of Lunalilo a mutiny occurred among the Household Guard, which was then stationed at Honolulu, and was suppressed by the United States Army Quartermaster's Department. The men mutinied over the kind of pot used in the barracks, but they shouted the battle cry of "Lunalilo forever" as they went back. The Honolulu Rifles were called out. Among the volunteers who made ready to advance upon the enemy was William Auld. However, the enemy did not appear, and the rifles went back.

King Kalakaua appointed Mr. Auld high priest of the Hale Naua (House of Wisdom), instituted in 1886. He was an authority on Hawaiian folklore, and was a student of the Hawaiian tongue and the ancient religious rites of the Hawaiians, much of which he wrote in a book which cannot now be found. That also gave a history of his life.

When 16 years of age he married Mary Adams, daughter of Captain Adams, who is said to have been one of the designers of the Hawaiian flag. Of this union there were born Mrs. Mary Adams and Miss Auld, and a brother, James Auld, who many years ago left Honolulu for Galveston.

In the winter of 1893 William Auld, accompanied by D. Kalauokalani, Kahanaloa and J. K. Kaeha, went to Washington to protest against the annexation treaty which was then pending in Congress. The delegation went in the interest of Queen Liliuokalani. This was his first and only visit to the United States.

Many years ago Mr. Adams Mr. Auld said that when the rain and kindness ceased he would pass to the beyond, and his prophecy was fulfilled.

STOCKHOLDER DEVELOPMENTS

an attempt of bribery just for the sake of appearing in a role of righteousness before the public.

Though the conduct of the court has done incalculable and almost irreparable harm to the cause for which it appears we then had, our situation is not as serious and desperate as Secretary Wightkemp painted it, when he urged the immediate sale of the property to the highest bidder, at any sacrifice, on the ground that the crop was fast deteriorating and at stake of being entirely lost, for I can prove by expert testimony, well acquainted with the conditions, that the present value of the crop will hardly commence to suffer before the expiration of another two and a half or three months, and then only seriously on the lower lands now in cane.

He, the receiver, further has asserted that the mill is a concern composed of old machinery, picked together all over the country, wherever they could be found, and that it will not pay. I do have, and can prove it, that nearly every piece of machinery contained in it was bought for new and contained new machinery when completed. The mill will be as good and as efficient to do the work as any other of its size in the country.

The fact is, however, we can look through the game.

It now remains to pay the receiver his reasonable fee of $500, and other expenditures for the plantation. This accomplished, and the stockholders have our own bonds, we hope that a brighter future is in store for us.

NO MORE FLAT RATES ALLOWED

Electric Light Co. Notifies Subscribers That Privilege Is Withdrawn.

Those who have been enjoying the privilege of special flat rates from the Hawaiian Electric Co., Ltd., received in their mail on Saturday the following form of letter:

"On and after March, 15, it will be necessary for us to continue the flat rate of $..... per month for current furnished you at ..... No. ..... Our inspector reports you have the equivalent of ..... 16-candle power lights. The rate for the number of lights you have, based upon our flat rate schedule, is $..... per month, which rate we intend to put from March 15th.

"If you desire to reduce the number of lights, or have a meter installed, kindly call at our office on King street, and we will be pleased to have our service as you may wish rendered. We believe that by a careful use of lights, and the meter system, you will find the most economical for the consumer.

A case where a flat rate has been allowed at $1.75 per month, extends the cost for the same number of fixtures to $3.50, being the equivalent for eleven lamps. The rates as given in a leaflet, which was also sent out with the notice, are 20 cents each for the first 16 candle power lights, and 10 cents each for all over that number. The object of the new the privilege of making use of their mains in this manner or taking a meter. As the cost is increased to such an extent there will be a large number of disconnections made as accounts of the new order, and the ability of all lamps will no doubt, be on the increase.

WHOSE FAULT IS IT?

The world is full of disease and pain. Whose fault is it? Everybody's; therefore often the fault of the sufferers themselves. But the pressing question is,—what to do, how to relieve, how to cure. What would become of us if means were not found to combat disease? We, then, of course, would destroy us and the world would be depopulated. Until we learn how to prevent disease, we must be thankful for the means of alleviating and curing it after it has seized upon us, and stands, like a savage with uplifted axe, ready to take our lives. Especially do we need some sure and speedy form of treatment for those complaints which are universal—such as are peculiar to our country climate. We allude to those ailments as Nervous and General Debility, Hysteria, Scrofula, Chronic Diarrhœa, Asthma, Throat and Lung Complaints, Blood Impurities, and the ills of women and children. For those comes as near to being an actual specific as any medicine yet discovered. It is palatable as honey and contains the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extract of Malt and Wild Cherry. You may therefore see that 3 valuable tonics are embodied in a single article made by human hands. Dr. J. L. Carrick says: "I have had remarkable success with it in the treatment of Consumption, Chronic Bronchitis, Catarrh and Scrofulous Affections. It is of special value in nervous prostration and depraved nutrition. It stimulates the appetite and the digestion, promotes assimilation, carries directly into the circulation with the food. I consider it a marvelous success in medicine." Every dose effective. "It cannot disappoint." Sold by all chemists.
